Power Book is an exclusive look at business leaders in 14 industry categories who were prominent in the news over the last year or who, in the newspaper staff's judgment, otherwise deserve recognition for recent business accomplishments.

The industry categories are accounting, banking and finance; architecture; commercial real estate; communication and media; construction and engineering; economic development and government; energy and natural resources; health care; law; nonprofits and foundations; residential real estate; retail and marketing; and technology, telecom and aerospace.

The selections in each category were determined entirely by the editors and reporters of the Denver Business Journal.

Subscribers of the DBJ can read the full special report on the Power Book winners and finalist in the Sept. 25 print edition of the paper or online at DenverBusinessJournal.com.
